ABRÉGÉ

DE

LA GRAMMAIRE ANGLAISE

Il y a dix espèces de mots que l'on appelle parties du discours, ce sont :

1^o L'ARTICLE défini et indéfini; 2^o le SUBSTANTIF commun et propre; 3^o l'ADJECTIF qualificatif et déterminatif; 4^o le PRONOM personnel et déterminatif; 5^o le VERBE auxiliaire, défectif, régulier et irrégulier; 6^o le PARTICIPE, présent et passé; 7^o l'ADVERBE, 8^o la PRÉPOSITION, 9^o la CONJONCTION, 10^o l'INTERJECTION, qui sont des mots invariables.

ARTICLE DÉFINI.

The, le, la, les.

On forme le pluriel des substantifs en ajoutant s au singulier.

la leçon, the lesson.

les leçons, the lessons.

ARTICLE INDÉFINI.

a, an, un, une.

un père, a father.

une humeur, a humour.

un empereur, an emperor.

une heure, an hour.

On voit par les exemples qui précèdent qu'il faut employer a devant une consonne ou un h aspiré et an devant une voyelle ou un h muet.

Cependant il faut employer a avant un u long ou un h muet, suivi d'un u long, avant un w, avant un y, et avant le mot one.

Du, de la, des, sont composés de la préposition de et de l'article.

Au, d la, aux, sont composés de la préposition d et de l'article.

Du, de, la, des, of the, from the, with the, in the.

On emploie of quand il y a possession; from, quand il y a rapport, séparation, extraction, source; with, quand il y a possibilité de tourner cette préposition, par avec; in, quand il y a un superlatif suivi d'un nom de lieu.

De, of, from, with, in.

la tyrannie de l'empire. the tyranny of the empire.
de la première leçon à la seconde. from the first lesson to the second.
un encrier rempli d'encre. an inkstand filled with ink.
le plus grand homme de Paris. the greatest man in Paris.

Du, de la, des, se traduit par some, quand la préposition de est prise dans un sens partitif; dans ce cas, some peut souvent se supprimer.

du pain, bread ou some bread.

Au lieu de some, on emploie any quand la phrase est négative ou interrogative; mais si elle est à la fois négative et interrogative, on emploie some.

Je n'ai pas de pain. I have not any bread, ou I have no bread.
A-t-il du beurre? Has he any butter ou has he butter.
N'a-t-elle pas de fleurs. Has she not some flowers, ou has she no flowers?

La négation ne... pas se traduit par not quand on emploie l'article et par no, quand on le supprime.

To après un verbe de mouvement; at après un verbe de repos.
Il va à Londres. He is going to London.
Elle est à Paris. She is at Paris.

Quand un substantif est terminé par s, x, z, sh, ch, o, au lieu d'ajouter s pour le pluriel, on ajoute es.

un derviche. one dervis. deux derviches. two dervises.
une boîte. one box. trois boîtes. three boxes.
un bourdonnement. a buzz. des bourdonnements. buzzes.
un souhait. one wish. quatre souhaits. four wishes.
une église. one church. cinq églises. five churches.
un nègre. one negro. six nègres. six negroes.

Quand ch doit prendre le son k, on ajoute simplement s.

un monarque. a monarch. des monarques. monarchs.

On traduit un, une, par an quand on ne veut pas spécifier de nombre au pluriel, et par one, lorsque l'idée de nombre au pluriel est prédominante.

Donnez-moi une pomme, give me an apple, le pluriel signifiant : donnez-moi des pommes; donnez-moi une de ces poires, give me one of those pears, l'idée principale étant que ce soit une plutôt qu'o*ux* ou trois.

fou se change en ves.

une moitié, one half.

sept demies, seven halves.

une épouse, one wife.

huit épouses, eight wives.

Cependant les mots terminés par oof, rf, ff, ief, prennent une s, excepté thief, voleur, qui fait ves.

y se change en yes, quand il est précédé par une consonne.

une dame, one lady;

neuf dames, nine ladies;

un garçon, one boy;

dix garçons, ten boys;

Parce que l'y de boy n'est pas précédé d'une consonne.

Il y a des substantifs irréguliers : brother, frère, fait brethren, dans le sens figuré. J'ai onze frères, I have eleven brothers (famille). Child, enfant, fait children; man, homme, men; woman, femme, women; ox, bœuf, oxen : die dé (à jouer), dice : mou*se*, souris, mice : goose, oie, geese; foot, pied, feet : tooth, dent, teeth : penny, sou, pence : vortex, tourbillon, vortices : cherub, chérub*in*, cherubim : seraph, séraphim, seraphim : bandit, bandit, banditti : mage, mage, magi : genius, génie, geniuses : radius, rayon, radii : phenomenon, phénomène, phenomena.

Les suivants s'écrivent de même au pluriel :

alms, aumône.

people, peuple, gens, monde.

deer, daim.

sheep, mouton.

bosc, bas (haut de chausse).

grouse, coq de brugère.

Les suivants ne s'emploient qu'au singulier.

business, affaire.

rubbish, décombres.

font, font*aine* de baptême.

learning, instruction.

wheat, froment.

parsimony, économie.

Les suivants ne s'emploient qu'au pluriel :

ashes, de la cendre.

oats, de l'avoine.

cresses, du cresson.

dregs, de la lie.

riches, de la richesse.

DES MOTS SEMBLABLES DANS LES DEUX LANGUES.

Tout mot terminé par al, ble, ace, ance, ence, ice, acle, ade, age, ége, ge, ule, ile, ine, ion, ant, ent, s'écrit de même en anglais qu'en français, non compris les accents aigus, graves et circonflexes, qui n'existent pas en anglais.

Exemples.

animal,	lance,	vestige,	docile.
fable,	eloquence,	doge,	machine, etc.

Il y en a qui changent de terminaison, comme :

aire , en ary.	solitaire , solitary.
oire , ory.	gloire , glory.
ce , cy.	clémence , clemency.
te , ty.	perspicacité , perspicacity.
eux , ous.	dangereux , dangerous.
eur , our.	faveur , favour ou favor.
eur , or.	erreur , error.
in , ine.	clandestin , clandestine.
if , ive.	adjectif , adjective.
ie , y.	tyrannie , tyranny.
cratie , cracy.	démocratie , democracy.

Quand un substantif est pris dans un sens général, on supprime l'article en anglais.

L'or est précieux, gold is precious.

Au lieu de of, on peut employer le génitif des Anglais ('s), en transposant les deux substantifs quand il y a un possesseur, mais alors il faut supprimer le déterminatif du premier substantif :

La tyrannie du sultan, the tyranny of the sultan, ou the sultan's tyranny.

ADJECTIF QUALIFICATIF.

L'adjectif est invariable.

un homme vénérable.	a venerable man.
des hommes vénérables,	venerable men.

L'adjectif se place ordinairement avant le substantif; cependant s'il est suivi d'une préposition qui indique que cet adjectif a un régime indirect, il se place après.

Un homme vénérable par son âge, a man venerable by his age.

Ou quand l'adjectif est pris adverbialement.

L'âge rend un homme vénérable, age makes a man venerable.

On emploie her, quand l'objet ou les objets appartiennent à une femme : Son livre, her book. Ses livres, her books.

On emploie its, quand l'objet ou les objets appartiennent à un neutre, c'est-à-dire à un objet ou à un animal : Son livre, its book : (le livre de la bibliothèque) Ses livres, its books.

Il y a trois manières d'exprimer en anglais un présent ou un prétérit de l'indicatif.

je lis, I read, I do read I am reading.

je lisais, I read, I did read I was reading.

1^o On emploie le pronom et le verbe comme en français pour exprimer un axiome; pour montrer comment une chose se fait ou pour indiquer une habitude.

I always read very loud, je lis toujours très-haut.

I read my book every morning, je lis dans mon livre tous les matins.

2^o On emploie le verbe to do, pour donner de la force.
(je vous dis que) je lis, I do read.

3^o On emploie le verbe être avec le participe présent pour exprimer quelque chose qui est en train de se faire, pour exprimer l'action au moment de la parole.

je lisais quand il vint, I was reading when he came.

Do, did, shall, will, should, would, may, might, etc., s'emploient encore pour signifier oui, en réponse à une question; alors le verbe est sous-entendu.

do you read? I do.	lisez-vous? oui (je fais).	} sous-entendu l'action de lire.
did you read? I did.	lisiez-vous? oui (je faisais).
shall you read? I shall.	lirez-vous? oui.
etc.	etc.

On emploie do au présent et did au prétérit, quand un verbe est négatif ou interrogatif.

Je ne lis pas,
Je ne lisais pas,
Je ne lirai pas,
 etc.
est-ce que je lis ?
est-ce que je lisais ?
est-ce que je lirai ?
 etc.

I do not read.
I did not read.
I shall not read.
 etc.
do I read.
did I read.
shall I read.
 etc.

do s'emploie aussi à l'impératif négatif deuxième personne :
 Ne lis pas ou ne lisez pas, do not read.

VERBE RÉCIPROQUE.

we warm each other
you warm each other
they warm each other

nous nous chauffons,
vous vous chauffez,
ils, elles se chauffent,

VERBE PRONOMINAL.

we warm ourselves.
you warm yourselves.
they warm themselves.

Au lieu de each other, on peut employer one another, qui signifie l'un l'autre, tandis que ourselves, yourselves, themselves, signifie nous, vous, eux-mêmes.

RÈGLE GÉNÉRALE.

On ferme la troisième personne du singulier du présent de l'indicatif comme le pluriel des substantifs.

les habillements, the dresses il s'habille, he dresses.
les boîtes, the boxes elle boxe, she boxes.
 etc. etc.

Les verbes terminés par y (réguliers) précédés d'une consonne changent y en ied pour le prétérit et le participe passé : copiais, copied, copié, copied.

Il faut doubler la consonne finale d'un mot monosyllabique quand cette consonne est précédée d'une simple voyelle et qu'il faut lui ajouter une terminaison.

Les participes sont invariables en anglais. Presque tous les participes présents peuvent devenir des substantifs.

ADVERBES.

On forme un adverbe anglais d'un adjectif, en y ajoutant ly.

Quand il faut ajouter une terminaison à un mot terminé par y, il se change en i simple.

On forme un adjectif d'un substantif en y ajoutant un y.

Quand il faut ajouter une terminaison à un mot terminé par e muet, on le supprime.

(sang, blood) (sanglant, bloody), (d'une manière sanglante, bloody).

(aise, ease) (aisé, easy), (aisément, easily).

COMPARATIF DE SUPÉRIORITÉ.

On forme le comparatif de supériorité en ajoutant er, ou bien z à 1084 ABRÉGÉ DE LA GRAMMAIRE ANGLAISE.

l'adjectif monosyllabique, et en plaçant more (plus) devant l'adjectif polysyllabique.

grand , great	plus grand , greater.
beau , fine	plus beau , finer.
gros , big	plus gros , bigger.
cruel , cruel	plus cruel , more cruel.

Cependant on peut changer y en ier pour les polysyllabes en y et ajouter r pour ceux en some.

joli , pretty	plus jolie , prettier.
beau , handsome	plus beau , handsomer.

Pour le superlatif on change r en st, et more en most. Le plus grand, the greatest; le plus beau, the finest; le plus gros, the biggest; le plus joli, the prettiest; le plus beau, the handsomest, etc.

COMPARATIF D'INFÉRIORITÉ.

Moins se rend par less, et le moins par the least.
Moins malin, less sly; le moins malin, the least sly; moins opulent, less opulent; le moins opulent, the least opulent.

COMPARATIF D'ÉGALITÉ.

Elle n'est pas aussi grande que toi, she is not so tall as you.

Après un comparatif de supériorité ou d'infériorité le que doit se rendre par than.

Il est plus grand que vous, he is taller than you;

Elle est plus grande que vous, she is taller than you.

Elle est moins grande que vous, she is less tall than you.

Après un superlatif on emploie in ou of, pour de comme on l'a déjà vu.

IRRÉGULARITÉS.

bon , good	$\left\{ \dots \text{better} \right\}$		the best .
bien , well
mauvais , bad ill	$\left\{ \text{worse} \right\}$		the worst .
mal , badly
petit , $\left\{ \text{little} \right\}$	$\left\{ \text{less} \right\}$		the least .
